THE MAINE TROUBLE.

DECISION OF SUPREME COURT-STATE OFFICERS NOMINATED.

Aspect of Affairs Changed-Will Never Meet Again-Smith Desires to be Governor.

BANGOR, Me., Jan. 17 .- The Supreme Judicial Court will send to the Republican Legislature to-day its reply to the questions submitted by that body touching the legality of an organization of the Fusion Legislature. The decision generally sustains the Republican position, they say. An election has been had by the electors of that State, and the rights of the several par ties voted for depends upon the votes cast in accordance with the constitution and laws of the State. It was the duty of the Governor and Council thus to declare it, and any declaration of the vote not thus ascertained and declared, is unauthorized and void. The Governor and Council examined the returns, and undertook to declare the result as it appeared by the returns, but the various questions involving the true construction of the Constitution and statutes relative thereto arose, and the Governor, by virtue and by his constitutional prerogative, called upon the Court for its opinion upon the ques-tions propounded. By the provisions of the Constitution the Court was required to expound and construe the provisions of the Constitution and statites involved. It gave full answers to these questions, and the opinion of the Court was thus obtained in one of the modes provided in the Constitution for an authoritative determination of important questions of law. The law thus letermined is a conclusive guide of the Governor and Council in the performance of their ministerial duties. Any action on their part, in determining the vote as it appears by the returns, is violation of the provisions of the Constitution, and the law thus declared is a usurpation of the authority and must be held void. It only remains to apply those principles to the subjects embraced in the questions propounded. On this basis the Court answers favorably to the Republicans the various Boston, Mass., Jan. 17.-A special from Augusta to the Herald says that nothing of importance has transpired this morning up to this hour-90'clock. The police force on duty in the State House has apparently not been increased, as the number of officers in and about the rotunda is still small; but the occasional opening of doors of rooms on the second floor, used for headquarters, reveal the fact that they are full of resolute looking men, wearing badges.

General Chamberlain has not yet arrived at headquarters, but his staff are all on duty, and Mayor Nash has been here all this morning. A conversation with Mayor Nash reveals the fact that his backbone is still as stiff as a poker, and that he regards Governor Smith's orders as a harmless exhibition of Mayor, "Smith has no authority which anybody will respect." The Mayor continued: "He has no support from the Supreme Court; he can get no aid from the militia or sheriffs; he does not control the State Treasury, and whatever funds he uses must come from private sources; he has no arms, and, in fact, it may be said that he has no backing whatever of an official character. If he attempts to turn General Chamberlain out of the State House by torce, his force will be force of a mob and would have exceedingly warm reception here. When asked if he believed there would be any breach of peace, the Mayor said certainly not on our part. If any act of violence is committed it must come from the other side. We are here to preserve the peace and not to break it. We have protected both of the legislatures in the peaceful occupation of the legislative halls and I propose to interfere in no manner so long as they do not resort to violence. Both Houses met at 9 o'clock according to the adjournment. After the reading of the journals they took a recess until 10 o'clock. It is doubtful if a quorum is present in the House, at least two mem hers have gone home and several others have not put in an appearance in the hall and a recess was probably taken for the purpose of rallying the absen-It is understood that the Fusionists have telegraphed for the opinion of General Butler, Hon. Biron Bradbury and several other eminent lawyers to offset the opinion of the Supreme Court and they expect replies in season to lay them before the members of their legislature upon reassembling next Tuesday. The Fusionists are quiet and do not talk much. There is a report that the latter will endeavor to compromise, but it is of doubtful authority. Some of the Fusionists have certainly weakened. At least two members of the House have said that they would not resist the decision of the Supreme Court and the remarks of a Sentor from Aroostock county vesterday. indicate that he is of the same disposi The hotels are crowded with men

At the end of the recess in the House. Mr. Cushman, of Sherman, made a speech recommending application to Congress for aid in repelling attempts nnder the decision of the Supreme Court to drive this body from the State House. Mr. George F. Hill, of Corinth, said that we stand to-day in a very critical condition. The clergy, money power, and the courts are against us. He beleved some measures should be adopted for the submission of further questions to the court giving fair statement of the case and hoped some member would suggest a measure whereby this was effected. He noticed that several members who yesterday expressed their willingness to shed their last drop of blood in defending their rights, were absent to-day (applause and laughter) but he believed there were sensible men enough left to treat this question with the attention

Mr. Ingalls, of Wiscosett, offered a joint order for the appointment of a committee of five, to be joined by such as the Senate may see fit to name, to take into consideration the present condition of affairs, and to report to the House the best method of procedure. The Supreme Court had decided on a questions which had been subted by another and irregular body; that this body was not legally consti-He thought a set of questions giving a fair statement of the case might be submitted. position was the same as Mr. Hill's,

If the Court has been used as an instrument to deprive us of our rights, the crime is not ours; revolution has come by the action of the court; against that court we have no appeal. He heartily approved of the proposed order and hoped that it would pass. Mr. Robinson, of Thomaston also favored the passage of this order. Mr. Cushman, of Sherman still advocated the resort to Congress. Mr. Perry, of Camden favored the order in a sp of some length. His speech was greeted with applause, mingled with hisses from the rear of the hall, and Mr. Bradbury, of Norway, protested against the hisses as a breach of the decorum and hoped for the good name of the State that that sound would never be heard here again. Mr. Ingalls moved as an amendment to order the offered clause limiting the committee to members of the House and leaving the Senate to take an independent action. The order as an amendment was passed and the spe ker appointed Ingalls, of Wis-cosett; Robinson, of Thomaston; Wil-son, of Orona; Whitman, of Harrison; and Hill, of Exster, as members of the committee. Notice was given that this committee would meet at the Augusta House immediately after the House adjourned. In the Senate, an order for the appointment of a committee of five to take into consideration the state of affairs as existing, and to report as early as possible on some course of procedure to be adopted, was offered by Senator Patten, of Penobscott, and adopted.

The President pro tem appointed Senators Patten of Penobscott, Thompson of Knox, Partin of Somerset, Strickland of Arostook and Rankins of Strickland of Arostook and Rankins of Oxford, after which Senators Strickland and Patten both made brief speeches recommending moderation. In the House, Messrs. Stiles of West Brook, Lewis of Springfield, Staples of Parsonsfield, and Hussey of Brooks, made brief speeches on the situation, after which both Houses met in joint convention, and the oath of office was convention, and the oath of office was administered to Messrs. Chase, Rust, Priest and Whedden, the councellors elect.

At 11:30 o'clock A. M. the Republicans in caucus in the Granite Hall made the following nominations for State officers: Secretary o State, Sumner J. Chadbourne of Dixmont; State Treasurer, J. W. Taylor of Hope; Attorney-General, H. B. Cleaves of Portland; Adjutant-General, S. J. Gallagher of Augusta: Councellors, R. S. Browns of Saco; Lewis Barker of Bangor, and John P. Hinckley of Blue Hill.

Boston, Jan. 17.—A special from Augusta says the whole aspect of affairs has changed and hopes of a peaceable solution of the dispute by a decision of the Supreme Court, are blown to the winds by the action taken by the Fusionist. Last night soon after the points of the decision were received from Bangor. The leading Fusionists had a consultation with Governor Smith and staff, and the following order was issued:

STATE OF MAINE, STATE OF MAINE, OFFICE, Augusta, Jan. 16, 1880. Special Order No. 2.

General order No. 4 dated November 1, 1879, assigning General Joshua L. Chamberlain to duty as commander of the first division of Maine militia, and requiring the commanding officers of all military organizations of the State to report to him is hereby revoked. Special order No. 45, dated January 5th, 1880, directing General Chamberlain to protect public property and in-stitutions of the State is hereby revoked. Commanding officers of military organizations accepted into the service of the State are required to report to the Commander-in-Chief. Joseph L. Smith. This order was taken to Chamberlain by Generals Fal-som and Black of the Governors staff. The General received it and replied that he would return an answer this morning. Orders have been sent to the commanding officers of every military company in the State signed by Smith announcing that Chamberlain had been relieved from the command and directing them to obey no orders except from Smith.

AUGUSTA, Jan. 17.—General Chamberlain will pay no attention to the order of Governor Smith taking away the command of the militia from him. He will hold to his first announced position and will remain in the place assigned him until the Governor is legally elected and qualified. The Democrate are quite stiff this morning and talk threateningly and condemn the decision of the court.

THE LATEST. Augusta, Jan. 17.—Both branches of the Legislature adjourned to Monday this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The mem-bers quietly separated, and the general opinion is that neither branch, as now onstituted, will ever meet again. The debate in the Senate was for the submission to the decree of the Supreme Court. Governor Smith has appointed the following staff: Adjutant General, M.

M. Falson; Inspector General, Clark S Edwards: Assistant Adjulant General E. W. French; Surgeon, Geo. A. F. Piper; Judge Advocate eneral, Richard W. Black; Commissary General J. H. Blood; Lieutenant Colonel, Ho-J. H. Blood; Lieutenant Colonel, Ro-race M. Davis; Aids-de Camp, John Benson, Jr., and William W. Sargent. General Chamberlain, in his reply to Governor Smith, concludes: "While the matters now in issue involve the very grave question whether you are Governor or not, it must be manifest to you that I should fail in my duty were I to surrender my trust except on undoubted evidence of your authority to demand it. If you are the lawful Governor, you can easily relieve all the embarrassment by affording me an authoritative decision of the Court to which I am now and always have been ready to yield prompt obedience. I cannot but add that courtesy and the custom of service, to say nothing of the grave complications of the present situion, it gives me the right to expect that you will furnish the proper evidence of your authority."

Major Falson, who signed the order last evening relieving General Chamberlain from command, was among the first at General Chamberlain's headuarters this morning to apply for a pass for a friend to visit the State

Boston, Jan. 17 .- A Saco special says ex-Secretary of State Gone, arrived from Augusta on the midnight train. He states that Joseph L. Smith declares, I have been chosen Governor, and by — I'll be Governor. This most of the Fusionists applauded. They laugh at the decision of the Supreme Court. They say they will support Smith in what ever he may do. On the other hand the Republicans are no less resolute to adhere at any loss to what they say is the side of right and law. There is no mistaking the fact that deep and bitter feelings are being engendered and no one knows what an hour may bring forth. The Representative Hall was packed with men in every inch of space, the surrounding seats being occupied by standing men while the galleries were a solid mass of human beings. Taking up of passes at the outer doors was abandoned at this time. The police being removed this time. The police being removed to the foot of the stair cases and to the doors of the second houses. Just as the prayer ended Blaine came upon the floor of the House and was received with enthusiasm. Men getting upon chairs and desks, waving hats and handkerchiefs while they rent the air with cheers and shouts. Business was entirely suspended for a few minutes and it was sometime before anything like order could be restored. Hon. Lot Morrill and Eugene Hale fo.lowed Braine and received a greeting scarcely less cordially though not so loud. All the Republican members with a few exceptions were present. Knowles, of Bradford, and Temple of Edinton, Fusion members came in and took the seats they had occupied in the Fusion House and were greeted with applause. Reading of the House Journal was concluded at 2:30. On motion of Goss, of Bath, the Speaker appointed a committee to act with a like committee from the Senate as a Joint Committee on gubernatorial votes. Orders were adopted adopting the rules of last year and providing that the House hold one session daily begining at 10 a. m.

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 17.—To-day the answers of the Supreme Court to questions of the Republican Legislature were received. The Secretary of State refused to give up the gubernatorial returns to the Joint Committee. William M. Sargeant has declined the appointment of Governor Smith's staff, he being a straight Democrat and un willing to endorse Governor Garcelon' greenback opinions.

Injunction to Remain.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.-In the argument yesterday before Judge Blatchford, in the United States Circuit Court, for a dissolution of the injunction in the suit of the Chicago, St. Louis & New Orleans Railroad Company against H. S. McComb and the Southern Railroad Association to restrain defendants from selling or parting with any of the first or second mortgage bonds of the Mississippi Central Railroad Company, it was neld that the injunction should re-man, but that the plaintiffs should pay into the United States Trust Compa the amount of coupons on $450,000 of secured mortgage bonds of the Mississippi Central Railroad Company, to await the issue of the suit now pending.

Oyster Vessels in Virginia.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 16.—The Senate yesterday passed House bill appropriating $1,500 for the suppression of outrages by non-resident crews of the oyster vessels in Virginia waters. The Governor will doubtless approve the bill at once, when measures will be immediately taken to carry out the proposed object.

A Negro Hanged.

IN GENERAL.

Paper weddings are about as popular as gold, silver and tin, now-a days. The Daily Telegraph, of London, is said to be able to make a saving of $150,000 a year from the fall in the price of paper in England.

A large plant, growing from six to seven feet high, and producing a kind of cotton and flax from the same stalk. has been discovered in Wisconsin Since good cloth can be manufactured from it, it follows that good paper also may be, and therefore the plant has been called the paper plant. If planted in the spring, it can be cut in the fall and winter. It bleaches itself white while standing, and will yield at least three or four tons to the acre.

On cold nights in the winter, when bedelothes were scarce, people used to spread over the top quilt a number of distended newspapers, which formed a very warm additional protection. But now the very bedclothes can be made out of paper. The new "Chartaline" aim as two pairs of woolen blankets, light, cleanly, and very cheap; and moreover they secure free ventilation, hitherto unobtainable under paper coverings.

Written for the News. A Visit to Raleigh.

Little Jennette Hodge, of Glen Meadews, had long had in contemplation a visit to her cousin Kate, of Raleigh. For months all her plans and thoughts tended in this direction. So one evening the cars came puffing and blowing up to the depot, having on board this piece of gentle humanity. After the conductor had dispensed his railroad duties, he walked with Jennie to Major F's, residence, not far from to Major E's, residence, not far from the depot and let her in at the side gate, Jennie glanced across the yard to the front gate, where stood an elegant phæton, footman in livery, and paw-ing steeds. A formidable appartion for an unsophiscated country girl. Cous-in Kate, however, caught a glimpse of Jennie in the yard, ran out to meet her, overwhelming her with caresses, ejac-ulations of endearment and exclamations of delight at seeing her. "But," she says, "Jennie I have an engagement to drive this evening. The gentleman is in the house now, waiting. Mother will take care of you till I re-

Mother will take care of you this I re-turn," and off she ran.
"Mother," good cousin Linga met Jennie at the steps, carried her into her room which looked grand and imposing, with its heavily carved furniture, ing, with its heavily carved furniture, soft carpet, bright pictures and glittering pier-glass. Life was assuming a more gorgeous phase than Jennie was accustomed to. Soon "cousin Kate" was back from her drive, and again flew at Jennie, smothering her with caresses and expressing her delight that she had come to visit her. Kate was full of life and quite valuable. Her mother told her she reminded her of an mother told her she reminded her of an impetuous stream, that swept everything before it, and always felt like snatching chairs and children out of

After supper, Jennie and Kate sought the grand old parlor, ensconced them-selves in the recesses of two huge cushioned chairs, before the glowing anthracite, and were soon deep in the mysteries of a confidential chat. Presently a gentleman called. As Jennie was not en toilette, nor the call intended for her, she very properly withdrew.

After going to her room that night,

Jennie was surprised at not finding herself in greater elation of spirits. Surely everything was grander and on a more extended scale than she had ever dreamed of, but whether she was capable of filling gracefully her position in this exalted station, was the question that perplexed her. When Kate came up to retire, Jennie was undressed and in bed, smothered up to her chin in the snowy frills and tucks of her night-dress. Her golden head was resting lightly on the pillow, and she was dreaming of home,—of go-ing with Dick and Jed after the cows, which they found in the lower meadow up to their knees in grass, nipping daises and butter-cups, their bells ring-ing out ko-ling, ko-lang, at every move of the head. Just then a bounce upon the bed, a push, a shake, an exclamation, "You mean thing! I thought you were going to sit up till I came."

Jennie rose up from her pillow rubbing her eyes and for a moment was endeavoring to recover consciousness, identity and whereabouts. At last she drawled out-"Is that you, cousin Kate?"

"Yes, I thought you were going to stay awake for me?" I did sit up ever so late-thought you were never coming. What time is

"Twelve o'clock, child, Captain Pharr and I have had a good timedone some tall flirting. But get up," said Kate leaving the bed, "You shan't go to sleep 'till I do. I've got to dis-robe, put my hair on crimping pins, and lots of things to talk about. Jennie did as directed, getting up aud taking her seat before the smouldering fire. For an hour a stream of talk poured forth from Kate—an unfinished sentence uttered now and then by Jennie, who would try to get in a word edgeways. Next morning Jennie put on her best dress, of dark blue material with dainty frills at throat and wrists, which in whiteness only rivaled the sleeping dress of the night before. Kate donned a robe de chambre. It was of cashmere—a delicate lilac shade—trimmed with satin a shade deeper. At first glance it appeared beautiful, dazzling, making Jennie feel very insignificant in her sober attire. But when fully seen, the robe was discovered to have suffered much from "wear and tear." As Kate flew down the stair-case to breakfast, a bright bird surely, but with soiled plumage, which fact, it must be confessed, rendered the quiet dove following better satisfied with her meek dress.

After breakfast, about eleven o'clock,

Kate said she must go and dress, pre-paratory for visitors, and asked Jennie if she would like to do so. "Change my dress!" echoed Jennie, in amazement, knowing she had no better in which to change.
"Very well," replied Kate, "you look real nice as you are." After Kate was dressed, and the girls had taken their seats in the parior, "calling" commenced. First, a quiet lady dropped in to see Mrs. T—; another to collect the monthly mission due; but hark, the rustling of silk is heard in the hall, and soon three ele-gantly attired ladies sweep into the room. Besides the introduction, and that polite "happy to meet you," de-livered with a suaviter in modo, not another word was addressed to Jennie by the visitors. But she was reminded of the confusion of tongues in Babel, in the clatter of tack and laughter that immediately set in. All seemed to be talking at the same time, and the voice that was pitched the highest carried the day. Now and then Jennie would catch parts of topics being discussed, such as, "I'm going to lead the German in pluk satin, with Jim —."

"I shall wear cream-colored silk, a la

"Betsey and Sam are to be married at last.' "Yes, I'm to wait on her in white satin and crimson roses." When they had left, cousin Linda took Jennie's hand saying, didn't you talk some, little girl? You've got more sense than any of them. I don't suppose they ever heard of your favorite authors you were talking to your uncle about last night—who were they—Carlisle and Dante?"

And Jennie cast in her mind how she had been reading up in order to be able to talk well when she came to Raleigh. Poor child! not knowing, as a rule, the more the brain takes on the stiller the tongue lies. But she knew this was not the cause of her taciturnity, was it that dignified silence which requires the finest cultivation to maintain, -and to possess the graceful, easy-going manners of the departed guests, she would have given everything.

Next day, after adjusting and re-adjusting Jennette's toilet, giving her the benefit of the pull-back, frizzed hair and hat jauntily tipped on one side of the head, she and cousin Kate set off down street, sight-seeing.

They wended their way to the new post office. The gentlemen in charge extended them every courtesy, show-ing them over the building, the post master inviting them to seats to rest in his luxurious apartments, giving them the while much valuable information of the big men of the State in the olden time. He is a most entertaining gentiemen, the post master. From the post office they extended their walk on to the graded school held in the old Governor's mansion, a somewhat dilapidated building.
"How gloomy." thought Jennie, "to be immersed in such quarters," as she approached. They were first inducted into Mr. Gully's room which contains about thirty scholars, both boys and girls. The reading class was on recitation. The visitors were handed a book, that they might enjoy overlooking the les-

No more distinct pronunciation, or intonation of voice, with due regard to punctuation, which form the essentials to good reading, Jennie thought she had never heard. After the reading a recess of five minutes was given—the scholars marching out into the open air and back again in the most orderly manner.

This was considered by the teacher a necessary respite from study. The next room in the school they visited was Miss Litchford's. Her scholars were being examined on mathematics or arithmetic. Jennie never saw bright er intellects than these little boys dis-played. Miss Litchford would give them out sums of her own make up, involving multiplication, subtraction and division, which they worked out mentally, giving the answer as soon as she finished stating it. Surely a competent hand had drilled them.

The next room visited was Captain Dugger's, principal of the school. Granmer and writing employed the scholars in that room. Captain Dugger has a bright eye and rather fine face. its pure waters.
A short recess was granted the whole school, after which visitors were in-vited to Miss Marshall's and Mrs. Mc-Donald's departments, to witness "Kin-dergarten" exercises. These were very interesting, and were interspersed with some wonderful specimens in compu-tation, by very small children, all of which reflected much credit on the character.

Jennie, in taking her handkerchief from her pocket that evening, drew out a chess man—she was very fond of playing chess—it dropped upon the floor. An elegant gentleman stooped, picked it up, and was in the act of pre-senting it to Jennie, when cousin Kate saw Professor B— bending and smi-ling toward Jennie, and thinking it a good time to put in an appearance and capture some of his attentions, rushed up to where they were standing, intro-ducing them formally. But Professor B— seemed loth to turn his attentions from the sweet girl by his side. Kate saw this, and returned to her former charge, Captain Pharr.

The light of gentleness, purity and intelligence cannot well be counterfeited. Professor B—'s cultivated taste detected this rare sparkle on Jennie's face. The remarks too, which he drew from her on the different subjects which the occasion suggested, revealed to him superior intelligence-expressed in the purest English and the sweetes At the conclusion he walked with them to the door, handed them down the steps, then gallantly lifted his hat, bidding them "good morn-on this enterprising city.

Much consultation was held by the girls on Saturday in what costumes they would appear in on Sunday, and what churches attend. In the morning they went to Christ Church, a beauti ful edifice. The audience chamber was filled with well-dressed, good looking people. The choir afforded fine music. As Dr. Marshall—the minister—ascended the pulpit, Jennie thought him very handsome—and the old saying she had often heard, "ugliness for wit," and which had found some lodgment in her mind as true occurred to her. But it was totally disproven in this instance. Dr. Marshall's sermon was profound, logical and theological. Jennie wondered if its truths, as they were enunciated from the desk, found lodgment in the hearts that beat beneath so much velvet and At night they attended the First Baptist Church. The spacious building was filled with people to its utmost capacity. As the choir rendered one of its bright, up-lifting, stirring anthems, the minister-Dr. Skinner-came upon the rostrum. He is a man of fine an pearance, elasticity and energy. His subject that night was, "The Music of the Soul." The theme was a pleasant one, and gave him much scope for the display of fine imagery and word paint-ing. But it grew solemn when he de-picted the state of the lost, whose only music was weeping and wailing. Dr. Skinner's preaching is characterized by much zeal and earnestness. He often sheds tears while preaching, proving the genuineness of Monday night the door bell rang-a card was brought in, bearing the name of "Professor B—."

"Oh," said Kate, "if it is'nt Professor B.," flying at Jennie, throwing her arm around her, to express her joy, wonder and amazement.

Professor B- was shown into the parlor. After some prelimi-nary talk he drew forth the chess pieces he had picked up at the Graded school presenting it to Jennie, saying in the confusion of the intro-duction with which Miss Kate favored him on that occasion he had somehow failed to give it her. He inquired if she played chess.

"Indeed she does," said Kate. "She and father play by the hour. Father thinks Jennie the best lady player he has ever met."

Profossor B. proposed a game. Kate produced the men, inviting them in the back parlor for the indulgence in their silent game, while she made lively the front parlor with her beaux.

Before Professor B- left, he expressed a desire to visit Glen Meadows. "Oh!" replied Jennie, "we are always delighted to see our friends who are willing to take the trouble to find us, but we live so far from the rail-

He told ber, if she would only assure him of her welcome, he would not mind the trouble. Next day when Jennie was leaving cousin Linda says, "see what you've done by coming to Raleigh! I think you have caught the nicest young man in the place."

THE METHODIST.

AN IMPORTANT METHODIST COUN-CIL TO BE HELD IN 1881.

Representatives of 20,000,000 to Discuss Matters Relative to the Church.

Philadelphia Reford, Jan. 9th. An important movement is on foot ooking to the convening of an Ecumenical Council or Conference of Methodists from all parts of the world, to be held in the United States some time next year. This idea was first mooted at the Methodist Episcopal Conference held in Baltimore in May, 1876, when a committee was appointed by the Read committee was appointed by the Board of Bishops to take it into consideration. This body, of which Right Rev. Bishop Simpson, of this city, is Chairman, has been in correspondence with representatives of the American Wesleyan Church the Mathedist Friegoral Church

Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the Methodist Protestant Church, the Evangelical Association, the Methodist and Methodist Episcopal Churches of Canada, the Wesleyan Methodists of England and other bourses Methodists of England and other bodies in every quarter of the world. Favorable replies having been re-ceived from one and all of these bodies, Bishop Simpson has issued a request for a meeting of the Committee, to be held in Cincinnation May 6th, to prepare a call for the Council. Every recognized organization of Methodists will be invited to send its representa-tives. It is expected that the Conference will represent 20,000,000 Methodists in all parts of Christendom, as well as in Asia and Africa. Its formal object will be to discuss "topics relating to the position, work and responsibili-ty of Methodism for the evangelization," The discussions will not be limited to a mere interchage of views on general subjects, but will embrace preposed changes in church rules and modes of government reform in missionary work, and the adoption of a common psalmody among all the Methodist Churches, as well as of a uniform order of service. This latter feature, however, does not mean the adoption of a prayer book after the Protestant Episcopal form, but the introduction of a regular and stated order of service, the tendency at the present time being in the di-rection of an increased formality in the modes of worship.

Some interesting statements are made in a circular letter to the Methodist of the United States by Bishop Simpson. Says the reverend gentleman: "That such an Ecumenical Conference would be a great blessing to the Church and the world can hardly be questioned. It would tend to harmonze and unify the different Methodist organizations, to break down caste and local prejudices, and to bind together in closest fellowsihp a people essen-tialy one in doctrine, spirit and purpose. It would lead to such adjustments of the missionary work as to prevent friction and waste. It could not but be extremely suggestive in regard to modes and agencies for the most successful performances of the Church's work of evangelization. It would, doubtless, give a great impulse to the cause of temperance and of Sabbath ob-servance, to Sunday schools and to all the beneficent activities of the Church, to education, to civil government, to other Christian bodies, and to the worldwide mission work, would certainly come to be better understood. In word, an increase of Christian intelligence, of conscious spiritual power and of faith in the redemption of the race from bondage and degredation of vice and immorality would, without question be realized. A more earnest consecration, an intense glow of enthusiasm, a more daring purpose of evangelism, and, consequently, more powerful revivals and larger beneficences in every department of Christ-ian enneavor would mark the future progress of the Church." Regarding the present condition of the Methodist Church, Dr. Fowler, editor of the chief organ sect, the Christ-ian Advocate, has this to say: "Methodism in the United States is especially strong. It outnumbers even the Catholics by several millions. We have now something like 3,450,000 adult members in the forty odd States and Territories, which at the lowest esti-mate represent a Methodist population of over 10,000,000. In Canada we have a Methodist population of over 600,000, and in Great Britain of over 3,000,000. But the great field of the Church is in the United States, and particularly in the West and Northwest. In Iowa Methodists are 30 per cent. more numerous than all the other denominations put together. We have increased more rap.dly in that quarter because there our church had the start of all the others, and was better adapted, by its simple methods and lack of formality and ostentatious show, to win converts. The central idea of Methodism in that county has been efficiency in the preaching of the Gospel instead of com-fort. Other churches have made more display, but we have made more converts. Another point in our favor has been our centralization and thorough discipline. Ex-Premier Mackenzie, of Canada, asked me once why Methodism, which was so centralized and even aristocratic a form of church government, found such favor among a Re-publican and freedom-loving people like those of the United States? I told him that they judged it by its results, and that the benefits flowing from its thorough organization and discipline. especially in newly-settled communities, gave it a great advantage over any other system."

Where the Conference will be held has not yet been decided, and this will be the chief point which the Committee will have to determine. Should Phila-delphia be decided upon, the year 1881 will be rendered notable by the bling of two great religious bodies in this city—the Pan-Presbyterian Coun-cil and the Methodist Ecumenical

SUNDAY, JANUARY 18, 1880. CONNECTICUT is rapidly gaining the reputation of being the worst State in the Union for divorces. For a number of years past the divorces have averaged 10 per cent of the marriagesa very bad showing, indeed. The evil has grown so great that it has excited the attention of the Governor, who recommends the Legislature to do something to prevent the dissolution of the marriage bond "on and sudden caprice." Unless something is done, Connecticut will have to forfeit the title it

THE stock speculation has reached Congress, and is raging there as bad as on Wall street. Fully a million dollars in stocks are held by Congressmen who are anxiously waiting for a rise and studying the papers carefully to find out how Erie and New York Central stand. The business has reached such dimensions that an enterprising firm of New York brokers has established a branch office in the Capitol and is doing a"rousing" business there. As a general thing, the Congressmen, particularly the Southern and Western members, do not understand the ropes, and are heavily fleeced, the operators gobbling up the margin of these lambs in a short time.

THE Parisian editor leads a more easy-going, recreation-indulging life than the hard-working members of the profession in London and New York. He objects to evening work, and consequently nearly all of the Paris papers are printed in the afternoon, few papers of the French capital take pains to make foreign correspondence a notable feature, and the minor work in their journals is of a character that can be performed by competent surbordinate without supervision by the editor, who devotes his evenings customarily to lively society, and has plenty of time to deliberate, before formulating his view on some sudden question of foreign policy that may arise.

A SURPRISE OR TWO.

Colonel William C. Church, of the Army and Navy Journal, contributes the January Scribner a suggestive and instructive account of the manufacture of "American Arms and Ammunition." The exhibit made by Colonel Church of the extensive use of American material by European nations will be a matter of general surprise to those not familiar with the facts. The paper contains the following

The reduction in cost of arms manufacture has not been obtained at the expense of quality. It has, on the contrary, been accompanied by a steady improvement in workmanship. The use of machinery compels the use of better material. At his examination, in 1852, before the Parliamentary Committee in England, Colonel Colt, the inventor of the revolver, was shown a Minie rifle, presented as a superior specimen of French handicraft,

"Do you consider, he was asked, "that the muskets made in the United States equal this?"

"There are none so badly made at our armory," was the reply. "That arm could not pass any of our inspectors." This was no idle Yankee boast, and it was equally true that the Enfieldmade breech-loaders, sent to the Providence Tool Company twenty years later as models to be followed in fulfilling the Turkish contract. These were so improved upon that Turkey has secured a much better arm than that used in the English service.

The reason is simply this: though the Enfield guns were honest and strong in workmanship, and made of excellent material, as are most English productions, even their model arm show a lack of finish not to be tolerated here, where the perfection of automatic machine-work is obtained, at a far less cost than less per ect handwork. As Colonel Colt stated on the occasion referred to, it cost then less in the United States to complete a gun-stock than it did in England to buy the wood for

A recent newspaper paragraph has recalled the ridicule with which Parliament received the proposition to make the first essay in the introduction of American methods, by the purchase of Blanchard's American gun-stocking machinery. The idea that the Americans were surpassing the English in gun manufacture was really "quite too amusing." An English expert was sent over to investigate. He brought with him three rough stocks, of the toughest timber he could find, certain that they would prove too much for the machine intended, as he supposed, for the American soft woods. Concealing his purpose he asked the overseer of the Springfield Arsenal to run them through the machine. Much to his surprise it handled them all the better because of their hardness. The result was that an order was left at Chicopee for the Blanchard machine, and the accompanying machines, six or eight in all, to be sent to England, where they have since been in use.

'SQUIRE BRAY'S COURTSHIP.

And How, by Means of an Alarm Clock, His Son Broke Up the Match.

Reidsville (N. C., Times. 'Squire Bray, of Caswell, was hunting another wife, but his son Bob, a wild blade, knocked him out of it. In the capacious breast pocket of the Squire's great-coat reposed a pint tickler, well filled, that he only proposed using on his way back from seeing the Widow Brown. Now, just before he started Bob slipped the tickler out and in its place a small alarm clock, carefully wound up and set for 11 P. M. The 'Squire had sat the fire out and was well on with his overcoat, holding the widow's hand at the door and putting in his sweetest licks for the last. "Yes your first husband, my dear, was one of my best friends, and we'll visit his and my lost Hannal's graves, won't we, "Ah, yes, for where was there a sweeter woman than your poor Hannah?" asked the widow. "A good woman; she was good enough, but there's a living one just as sweet," said the 'Squire, and he was drawing her to him for a kiss when whizz-wizz-zizzer-wizzer-hizzerting whir-r-r-r, ting! bang! the clock went off inside of him. "O lawd!"

she'd haunt me! She allers told me so!" cried the 'Squire, running in a stoop for his horse, with both hands pressed to his breast and the clock still striking, ting, ting. He rode like old Nick was after him and never knew the racket till he felt for his tickler and pulled out the little clock that Bob had bought at auction. Then he laughed till the tears ran, but he promised Bob never to spark another woman if he'd only keep the joke from the neighbors. The widow believes to this day that ord man Bray is a walk-

Charlotte Democrat. If the assembling of the Legislature would result in a sale of the Western North Carolina railroad on advantageous terms to the State, we think it ought to be done. If the State retains control of the work it will always be used as a tool by politicians, and its management made a matter of policy for the purpose of advancing some one's political prospects rather than pecuniary interests of the State.

The State has already lost control of the North Carolina railroad so far as the actual management of the road is concerned, and it would be better to let the stock owned by the State go to pay its indebtedness rather than tax the people to retain it. Governors have never yet appointed Directors for any of the State roads with a view to their fitness or capacity, but very often merely for the purpose of "grinding an axe" or to pay for one already sharpened.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. Rev. Sylvanus Cobb thus writes in the Boston Christian Freeman:-We would by no means recommend any kind of medicine which we did not know to be good—particularly for infants. But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge. In our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep, and the parents unbroken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button. And during the process of teething, its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say that they yould not be without it from birth of the child till it had finished with the teething siege, on any consideration whatever. Sold by all druggist, 25

What Physicians at Home and Abroad Think of the Neven Springs Iron and Alum Mass. In the treatment of Dyspepsia, Cblo rosis, Anæmia, Nervous and Muscular Debility, Nervous and Sick Headache, Dysmenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Amenorrhea, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder and such like organic of functional disturbances, I know of no remedy upon which I can rely with more certainty of satisfactory results than the "Seven Springs Mass."

W. F. BARR, M. D.,

Abingdon, Va.

I have found no one single remedy to "Seven Springs Mass." In the treatment of Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea, Anamia, Chlorosis, and for Chronic Eczema, I find it invaluable, associated with appropriate topical treatment. GEO. T. HARRISON, M. D., New York City.

From my experience with the "Iron and Alum Mass," I believe it will prove the best medicine we have in use, for chronic diseases.

G. M. D. PATTERSON, M. D., Eaglewood, Texas.

For Dyspepsia, Ulcerations of the Throat, Inflammation of the Neck of the Bladder, Leucorinea, etc., the "Seven Springs Mass" seems to act with almost specific effect.

E. O. GRIGSBY, -DeView, Ark.

We could extend this list into the thousands with such testimonials from hysicians from every State in the Union, but these are sufficient to indicate its application. The reputation of the remedy is too widely known to waste words upon its character. In ordering from druggists always mention Seven Springs Mass. Price $1 per package or six for $5, sent by mail, postpaid.

April 1st last, I began the use of Curicura, which was immediately successful in my case, entirely curing me. I nave not had a clean scalp for 15 years until the use of Curicura entirely healed it and left it clean and healthy. The other parts of my body were affected in a more aggravated form, but are now completely heal d. I believe myse f completely cured. I shall continue the uticura Resolvent as directed, for its wonderful action on the stomach and bowels and cooling influence on the blood. It will afford me pleasure, as I have done in many cases, to urge the afflicted to use these wonderful remedies.

Rev. Drs. Jeter, Broaddus, Dickinson, (Bap.)
It is indorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who underwrite this antidote to dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their united witness joined with the experimental use and approval of the preparation by well-known physicians, removes all doubt. It is beyond question, a wonderful therap-cutical agent.—Editors Religious Herald, Va.

Many cases of Dyspepsia within my knowledge have been cared by it. Cramps, Colics Headaches and all sorts of pains from indigestion yield promptly to it. The cares of this sort are innumerable. Rev. R. L. Dabney, LL. D.,

Col. Va.

It is highly esteemed here by the regular Medical Faculty and the people. It is excellent for indigestion and flatulent colic, sedative, soporific, tonic, slightly aperient.

About twelve years I suffered from Dys pepsia. Falling in with this remedy, I gave it a fair trial. After its use I could eat any thing with impunity. I am sure I am in debted to this medicine for what of health and physical comfort I have had for the last sixteen years. I have known many since to be relieved by its use. Rev. Robert W. Watts, A. M., Ve.

Rev. Robert W. Watts, A. M., Ve.
I have used the mixture in my family for years, and have taken it for a Dyspepsia Uoile, which threatened my life, and was cured, eating any diet without hurt. I have recommended it to other sufferers with happiest results. It is the best tonic and corrective I ever knew. For prostration from Dyspepsia or Liver Disease it is invaluable.

J. D. Eggleston, M. D., Va.
It is a highly valuable remedy, and is more extensively used than any single article in the whoe list of medicines, so far as I observed in Imp practice, for all the complaints in familie from indigestion I use it and recommend it.

This remedy is of tried virtue. I have seen Dyspepsia cured completely by it. It seems to be an antidote to our 'National Disease.' The ingredients are not kept by the apothecaries, and have been difficult to get.

Death of Talbot Henry Selby. Mr. T. H. Selby, one of our oldest and most highly respected citizens, died at his residence on Hargett street, in this city, on yesterday at 1 o'clock. He was born 21st January, 1801, and had nearly attained his seventy-ninth year. He moved from Hyde county to Wake about the year 1831, and for several years engaged in tarming some six miles southeast of this city. He moved to this city in 1838, and engaged in general mercantile business with Richard Green, of Johnston county, under the firm of Setby & Green. They conducted a long and successful business for several years, when Mr. Green's health failing him he retired, and Mr. Selby alone continued the business until about 1853. Mr. Selby was a man of the strictest integrity, and through his long life had the entire confidence and respect of his fellow-citizens, and filled many offices of trust. He was for many years a Director of the Bank of Fear, and was President of the North Carolina Mutual Fire Insurance Company-a most successful company up to the commencement of the war. Mr. Selby was a most consistent and useful member of the Methodist Church, and always took an active part in all that pertained to the temporal and spiritual interest of the church

BREWSTER'S HARDWARE EMPORIUM Sporting Goods. Guns and Pistols of various Patterns and Gun Material of every description. We have the largest and best assortment of THE NOW FRYER.

This useful invention meets a long-felt need for a more convenient method of removing Oysters, Potatoes, and other fried food, with greater quickness, and all at once, from the boiling fat in which they have been cooked, and allowing the fat to drain from them while they remain over the fire; thereby getting rid more certainly of the superfluous grease, the objection so often made of the unhealthiness of food cooked in the ordinary frying-pan is done away with.

cooked in the ordinary frying-pan is done away with.

By detaching the supporter, you have for omelettes and other things for which a drainer is not required, a deeper and better quality of frying-pan than has heretofore been made.
